

Congressional Stalemate Over More Covid-19 Aid

According to a report written by Matthew Albright, the chief legislative affairs officer at Zelis Healthcare, titled, “Partisan Stalemate Stalls Business Loan Funds”, the funds for the Paycheck Protection Program are expected to dry up today (April 16). The monies for the Paycheck Protection Program – $350 billion to help small businesses with forgivable loans – have all been accounted for, and the Small Business Administration (SBA) is not accepting any new applications.

Read the full article here:

<https://www.racmonitor.com/partisan-stalemate-stalls-business-loan-funds>